

A Universal Class? Toward a Sociology of Transnational (In)Justice

Wissenschaftszentrum Berlin für Sozialforschung, 28–29 November 2019, Room B 002/003

Organizers: Rainer Forst (WZB/ Frankfurt) and Lea Ypi (LSE)

Supported by WZB and Deutsche Forschungsgemeinschaft (Leibniz Research Group Transnational Justice, Goethe University Frankfurt)

Thursday, 28 November 2019

13:00–13:15 Opening remarks

13:15–14:30 Sara Farris (London): Class as a Social Relation

14:30–15:45 Anja Weiß (Duisburg): Transnational Cleavages in a World of Political Closure and Socially Differentiated Functionings

15:45–16:15 coffee break

16:15–17:30 Virginia Fontes (Rio de Janeiro): Expropriations and the Expansion of Capitalist Social Relations

17:30–18:45 Neera Chandhoke (New Delhi): Right-Wing Populism and the Silence of the Working Class

Friday, 29 November 2019

10:00–11:15 Dimitris Efthymiou (Frankfurt): Injustice: Structural and Non-Structural

11:15–12:30 Dorothea Gädeke (Utrecht): On Class-Based Domination

12:30–13:30 lunch break

13:30–14:45 Lea Ypi (London): Solidarity, Immigration and Social Class

14:45–16:00 Paul Apostolidis (London): Precarity, Class, and the Politics of Time

16:00–16:30 coffee break

16:30–17:45 Jiwei Ci (Hongkong): Class, Identity, Civilization: The Case of China/Hong Kong

17:45–18:30 Final round