

Changing Societies: The World We Live In

Interdisciplinary Franco-German workshop

Organized within the Franco-German project "New Frameworks for Societal Policies and Decision Making", the workshop brings together researchers from different disciplines to work on the guiding research questions of the project:

1. What are the key ecological, economic, and societal changes of our times?
2. How can we adequately describe, measure, and compare these changes?

Researchers from different disciplines will present their research ideas and findings from ongoing research projects at this first kick-off workshop. The workshop is an opportunity to further develop ongoing projects, advance research ideas for future studies and, in particular, to initiate new collaborations and strengthen the Franco-German network.
